

WHAT IS A COMMUNITY LAND TRUST?

What is a Community Land Trust?

A Community Land Trust (CLT) is a non-profit organisation that owns and manages land for the benefit of the community. Whilst we might focus on other activities in the future, the Waterfall Way CLT's priority is providing affordable homes for locals.

CLTs can also use the land for other community benefits such as gardens, shops, and workspaces. They ensure these assets remain affordable and accessible for future generations.

How do CLTs work?

- CLTs are run by local people who want to improve their community.
- The CLT takes the land off the market forever as a form of community stewardship. This means that the CLT is responsible for looking after the land so that it can be used for community benefit for many generations.
- Residents typically lease or co-own their homes in agreement with the CLT through a shared ownership arrangement. The Waterfall Way CLT's focus initially is on co-ownership.
- Homes are kept affordable by removing the land value from the market and setting limits on resale prices.
- Housing prices are linked to local wages, ensuring that people who live and work in the area can afford to stay.

Why are CLTs important?

- They provide secure, long-term affordable housing for local people.
- They help prevent rising house prices from pushing people out of their communities
- They promote community control and decision making.
- They protect important local assets, like shops, parks and workspaces, for future generations.

affordable housing
for locals

Prevent rising house prices
pushing people out

Community control and decision making

Protecting assets for future generations

A worldwide movement of community-led housing

A worldwide movement CLTs started in the USA and are now used worldwide to create sustainable, affordable housing in both cities and rural areas. They have a strong track record of providing long-term solutions to housing challenges.

Why are we supporting CLTs? We believe CLTs can make a real difference, both locally and nationally. By keeping land and housing affordable, CLTs ensure local people on local incomes can continue to live and work in their communities. They provide a fair and transparent way to manage housing and land for the benefit of all. We think it's a model worth getting excited about!
